

Members of the Campbell Coordinating Council are anxious to hear some comments on the proposal to establish a recreation district through which a small tax of five cents would support a recreational program for the area.

This tax would not in the average instance amount to more than $2 per year but would raise the amazing sum of $5500 per year if the district were approximately the same as the Campbell Union High School district.

Such a revenue would guarantee continuity to a recreational program and would enable long-term planning for such things as equipment and the like.

It has the further advantage of distributing the burden fairly and evenly instead of calling upon the same people year after year to contribute. With an annual expected income more could be accomplished, it seems to me, because there could be more adequate planning.

In these days of rising costs we are inclined to shy away from the thought of additional taxes but this proposal would not cost the family more than is spent on an evening at the movies and would offer far greater results.

It is not only the prospect of summer idleness which should disturb us but the unusual situation we face in the fall when all grammar school age children will be in school only four hours a day.

One suggestion made by a member of the finance committee as a means of raising money was to ask the Board of Supervisors for $5000. This was felt to be such an unprecedented move that the idea was more or less dropped. It might however have a germ of practicality for, if you will remember, one of the strongest recommendations of the County Grand Jury was the establishment of a county recreation program.

At any rate, the Council is eager to have Press readers write in their opinions as to the best means of solving the financial end of our badly needed recreation work.

Did you know that Mrs. Anthony Bargas is an eight-time contributor to the blood bank? That the Robert Herzhach's new custom built Dodge has a radio able to get foreign stations and a clock that never requires winding? That a large crowd turned out last Friday at the gym to watch the Gay Nighters of San Jose present their colorful folk dances. It was the first contribution to community recreation by the coordinating council and the Campbell spectators were so enthusiastic that plans are under way for folk dancing classes this fall.

Rev. Farr Speaks To Kiwanians

The Rev. Joyce Farr, minister of the First Methodist church of San Jose gave the Campbell Kiwanis club a Memorial Day address on Tuesday. He pointed out that, while men continually talk of peace, there are 19 million armed men in the world ready to go to war. Since, he said, the military had failed to bring permanent peace to the world cooperation must be tried as a last necessity.

Serving as chairman for the day was Jack Murdock and guests included Bill Capener of the Los Gatos club, Russ Steiner who was a guest of Ray Mathis, and Lee Estrada, the weekly high school guest.

Already installed is new pressing equipment which constitutes the latest and most complete in that line of business. The store itself is of modern design and is expected to be one of the most attractive stores in Campbell.

Their abandoned quarters will be redecorated and remodeled by T. J. Burnett, who intends to open an electrical appliance store there in the near future.

Accident On Mother's Day

It was not a very pleasant Mother's Day for Mrs. J. F. Levenberg, Sr., although it started out well.

Together with her husband, her son and daughter-in-law, she had gone to visit another son at Boyes Springs only to suffer a fall as soon as she arrived. In falling she struck her head severely and was hospitalized at Sonoma until last Sunday.

Mr. Levenberg also became ill but is reported as being much improved.

Fruit And Nut Crop Production Prospects Given

Good production prospects for fruit and nut crops are in sight for this year throughout the state, the California Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today.

Direct effects of rainfall shortage are not generally evident at the present time, but could become important before the late season crops mature, the service reported.

ESTIMATES

Crop estimates follow:
ALMONDS escaped serious frost injury but are somewhat irregular, 66 per cent of full crop compared to 81 per cent in 1946.

APPLES, average volume expected, 83 per cent as compared to 72 per cent last year.

APRICOTS will be fewer, 170,000 tons expected as compared to 300,000 tons in 1945, 55 per cent of full crop against 85 per cent last year.

CHERRIES, 29,000 tons expected compared to 34,000 tons last year, crop 67 per cent normal against 76 per cent last year.

GRAPES, three classes indicate there will be heavy production. Wine, 82 per cent of normal against 84 per cent last year; raisins, 90 per cent compared to 88 per cent and table, 86 per cent compared to 89 per cent.

PEACHES show a heavy set, with thinning now in progress. Clingstones, 88 per cent compared to 88 per cent, same as last year. to 93 per cent last year; freestones, PEARS are about four points below last year, which was 81 per cent of normal.

PLUMS are set for another large crop, with 92,000 tons expected, against 100,000 tons in 1946.

PRUNES are reported at 75 per cent of a full crop, compared to 73 per cent last year.

McMonigle Plea Is Denied

Federal Judge Michael J. Roche yesterday denied a petition of Thomas McMonigle for a writ of habeas corpus to free him from San Quentin prison's death row.

McMonigle is under sentence to be executed June 20 for the kidnapping and murder of 15-year-old Thora Chamberlain, Campbell Union High school student.

He was unrepresented in federal court except by his lengthy petition which, he declared, offered new grounds for reversal of conviction. Deputy Attorney General David Lener opposed granting of the petition.

The reputed "new grounds," Lener said, should be passed on by the state courts. Judge Roche told Lener, as an agent of the court, to assure McMonigle that he had a right to submit such matter to the state courts.

McMonigle contended his trial was hurried and dominated by mob spirit. He argued there was conflicting evidence in his "confession." But Lener told the court there actually were three conflicting confessions, but that in all of them McMonigle admitted slaying the school girl.

GENERAL GUILD TO MEET

The General Woman's Guild of Campbell Congregational church will hold its regular meeting at the church Thursday afternoon, June 5, at 2 o'clock.

This being the last meeting to be held before summer recess, a large attendance is requested. Group two will be in charge.

Helicopter Flight Used To Help Save Cherries From Rot

Experimental use Tuesday of an Army helicopter to dry off rain-dampened orchards bearing Santa Clara County's estimated $250,000 cherry crop and save the harvest appeared last night to have been in some measure successful.

Growers reported only slight damage to cherries which were drenched by Monday night's rain-storm. They had feared the fruit would swell and crack if the sun hit it while it was still wet.

The helicopter, which doubled back and forth over approximately 300 acres of cherry orchard land in the Sunnyvale, Mountain View, Cupertino and Santa Clara areas, created a heavy down-draft with its rotors, shaking the rain from the ripening fruit.

The "flying windmill" was obtained from the Air Rescue Service at Hamilton Field.

The Packers believe that much of the damage the rain might have caused was averted by use of the helicopter.

The ship, piloted by Lt. John R. Halpin, flew at tree-top level over orchards belonging to about 40 growers. The artificial windstorm from its rotors showered rain to the ground by bucketsful, observers said.

Pilot Halpin first directed his activities by smudge pots placed on the ground by farmers. However, Mariani said the smudges became confusing and Halpin landed on a portion of Mariani's to take aboard Walt Jemin, who served as navigator.

The ship made two trips to Moffett Field for refueling before completing its four-hour job.

Helicopters were used in a similar manner in the Northwest last year, and growers in this area said they were "astounded" at the ship's success. Ground blowers used previously are too slow to be effective driers, Mariani said.

The loss would have been terrific had it not been for Tuesday's overcast skies and the fact that a little wind blew.

Father-Son

Banquet Held

For the first time since the war, the annual fathers' and sons' banquet sponsored by Charity Lodge, F&AM, was held in Masonic hall here Monday evening.

About 125 attended; fathers with sons of all ages, or with "borrowed" sons if they had none of their own. In addition to dinner, the group saw a sound movie and heard brief talks from members.

Walter Williams headed the committee in charge and was assisted by Frank Coombs and Dean Chamberlain.

HOLLYWOOD VISITORS

Recent guests at the P. E. Payne home were the Paynes' son, Howard, and his wife and son. Howard now makes his home in Hollywood where he is engaged in tree surgery and grafting.

Tindall Named Recreation Head

At Monday evening's meeting of the Campbell Coordinating Council, Arthur Tindall was appointed by the executive board to serve as recreation director for the district comprising Campbell Union High school district.

This action was made possible by the adoption of a constitution and by-laws and the election of officers for the group. LBen Howard, who has been serving as temporary chairman, was elected president; Mrs. Blanche Gilpatrick, vice-president; Miss Dorothy Merriman, secretary; and Mrs. H. F. Cousins, treasurer. These officers will serve until January and comprise the executive board.

A long-term recreational program for the community was decided upon with financial support to be raised through the creation of a recreation district. Since this will take time and the immediate needs of the community are pressing, it was decided to raise necessary funds for the present through community activities.

The first money raising project will be a community dance scheduled for the evening of Saturday, June 14, in the high school gym. Tickets are now being sold for the event and meeting with much response. The new recreation director has promised a "live" orchestra and plenty of door prizes.

Tindall is well qualified for the post of director for he has been active for many years in recreational activities. A member of the Campbell Youth Council since its inception, he served as the first recreation director for Campbell. In addition to his work as a teacher in Campbell Grammar school, he is active in church youth work and Boy Scout work. For the past few weeks he has been managing Saturday baseball games for local boys who have responded eagerly to the opportunity.

William Henley headed the committee responsible for the construction of the constitution and by-laws and Herbert Shadle made the report of the finance committee as its chairman.

Membership in the council is comprised of representatives of more than 26 Campbell organizations. Other interested residents are invited to attend meetings which will be held the third Monday of each month.

New District Principals Named

William Henley, district superintendent of the Campbell Grammar School district, has announced that principals for the three schools to function under one roof next fall have been selected.

Miss Dorothy Merriman, present vice-principal of the Campbell school, will head the organization in the fall. Arthur Tindall has been named as vice-principal.

Selected as principal for the Moorpark school is Benjamin Mable, present principal at Lomita Park school in Millbrae.

From Irvington school in Alameda County comes William Shuey, chosen as principal for the San Tomas school. Both of the out-of-town principals are married men who are anxiously seeking housing in Campbell before fall.

A large number of new teachers will join the staff when school opens. Among them are Mrs. Helen Poley, Miss Dorothy Beatty, Miss Marjorie Faulkner, Miss Ione McFarland, Miss Beverly Smith, Miss Maxine Miller, Mrs. Florence Meyers, Miss Margaret Enas and Miss Darlene Westcott, all of San Jose State College; Miss Alice Cromar of Gilroy; Miss Harriet Johnston, a Campbell girl who has been teaching in Gilroy; Miss Jean Bernard of Freedom school in Santa Cruz county; Mrs. Grace Fairbanks of Encinal school; Mrs. Marian Garrett of Campbell; Mrs. Verle Houghtaling and Mrs. Thelma Wathen of San Jose.

Recently resigned at the Grammar school are Mrs. Marjorie Foster and Miss Grace Hassler. On a year's leave of absence is Mrs. Helen Hilliard.

New Post Office Open for Inspection Saturday, May 31

After numerous delays over a period of months the new Campbell Post Office will be open to the public for inspection on Saturday, May 31, from four to six in the afternoon and seven to nine o'clock in the evening.

Ira Grim, postmaster, states that all interested people are invited to attend the "open house" and view the new building and new equipment.

Beginning next week, all post office business will be conducted from the new quarters on Campbell Avenue between First and Second streets.

The present post office site is the property of the Ainsley Corporation and William Lloyd of that organization states that no decision has yet been made as to the future occupants of the property. John Lynden, owner and builder of the new building, has leased the property to the Government for 10 years. The structure itself is valued at $30,000 but in addition almost $20,000 of new equipment has been purchased.

Only about half the number of boxes in the present building will be maintained in the new set-up because of the inauguration of city delivery.

Set flush with the adjacent library building, the post office is finished with an exterior finish of stucco. The interior contains a lobby and a large workroom furnished with the latest in modern mail-handling equipment.

All lighting is fluorescent and the lobby floor is of terrazzo.

No loading or unloading of mail will be done on the street since the alley directly behind the new building will be utilized for that purpose.

Contractors for the building were Judson and Son of San Jose.

Play-off For Jr. League Necessary

A playoff game is necessary in the junior hardball league as a result of last week's final round of play. Tied for first in the final standings are Campbell Taxi, and Cambrian Hardware. The playoff game will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

In Saturday's games the Hardware men defeated a fighting Farley outfit 5-2 in a well played contest. Jones Service eased into the win column with a last minute 8-6 victory over the Folden-Hodges squad. In the final game, the Taximen trounced Gilpatrick and Standish to the tune of 15-3.

The final standings found Gilpatrick and Standish and Farley tied for third, Jones Service in 5th place and Folden-Hodges in the cellar position.

The week after Memorial Day will see the start of the second round of play at which time the league will be enlarged to accommodate two more teams seeking entry into the league.

In the Midget league the Leopards maintained their winning streak and remained undefeated. This record gives them the undisputed championship of this division. Play for these boys will be resumed at the same time the Jr. league gets under way once again.

Local School Third In Meet

Last Saturday on the local high school track, the Campbell Grammar school took third place in a closely contested track meet involving 11 of the county schools. Alum Rock was the winner with 58-plus points followed by Willow Glen with 55 and Campbell with 53-plus. The Campbell unlimited team tied for first place in its division, and the 110 exponents won in their division.

Outstanding in the meet for the locals were Fred Viles who won the unlimited high jump with a leap of 4' 10", tied for first in the 100 yard dash, and ran a fine lap on the winning relay team. Charlie McBain, tied for first in the high jump and broad jump, and ran on the winning relay team. The only meet record that was broken was broken by Jerry Zisch of the Campbell 70 exponent team when he made a fine jump of 13 feet in the broad jump.

The Campbell 90 exponent relay team had the misfortune to be disqualified and this was the deciding factor of the meet, because with these points under their belts, the Campbell team would have replaced the winners.

Receives High Honor At Stanford

Miss Marilyn E. Robbins, Campbell, was among the 12 Santa Clara county students at Stanford who were chosen for membership in Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic society.

The new members in the oldest fraternity in the United States were selected on the basis of academic excellence and represent the top ranking scholars in the class of '47. They were initiated Monday evening at the Women's Clubhouse on the campus. Dr. Peter H. Odegaard, president of Reed College, will deliver the annual Phi Beta Kappa address.

Maderis Ball Club Wins From S. J.

Maderis Food Center's baseball team won its fourth straight victory Sunday at Graham Field, by defeating the Astec ball club of San Jose 7 to 3. Ernie Jordan allowed the San Jose boys only four hits.

John Hurney in center field for Maderis stole five bases including home in the seventh.

George Gileed broke into the line-up at third base and got a double and a single. Johnny Sanchez, at short, and Ray Fish at first, made two fast double plays.

San Jose fans were amazed at the type of ball the Campbell lads played, as they are all under 17 years of age.

Maderis has joined the softball league in Los Gatos.

Scout Mothers

Give Card Party

By Dudley Herschbach
Moreland Scout troop 36 has a new reason to be proud of its "Scout Mothers." Last Saturday evening they gave a card party at the Moreland School Clubhouse and turned the proceeds, forty-six dollars, over to the troop to help finance their annual summer trip to Yosemite.

But to eclipse this, the mothers are forming a club for the purpose of "helping the troop in the ways that only mothers can." . . . (Whatever those are!)

I would try to report the card party in greater detail but I can't find out what a card party is! My mother says everybody knows all about card parties and that they are all the same! So I hope you know what went on at this one—I don't.

But seriously, the troop is much indebted to Mrs. Harry Pankoski and Mrs. William Weisendanger for their tireless efforts to make the card party the success it was.

Many of us wouldn't own our own homes without the aid of a mortgage . . . that's good. But the families of some of us, if we die, won't be able to keep their homes because of the mortgage. . . TO A DESERTED HOUSE

The windows are broken and shattered,
The door sags low in its frame,
Great holes in the roof tree, above me,
Are open to sunshine and rain.

As I stand and muse in the silence
Comes the echo of days gone by,
Ghosts come crowding around me,
With echo of laughter and sigh.

The rat scampering over the mantel
The bat that flits through the wall
Go floating away in the distance
And peopled again is the hall.

I seem to hear children's laughter,
And a mother's low, lullaby tune,
With whispers of lovers' devotion
On the steps 'neath a silvery moon.

They are gone, alas forever,
From under the old roof-tree.
Some may be gone to their Maker,
Some far over the sea.

I stand in the silence and wonder,
Wherever they may roam,
If weary hearts are aching,
For a sight of the dear old home.

Huge Crowd Is Expected In L. G.

All is in readiness today for the huge crowd expected to witness the annual Los Gatos Rodeo and Gymkhana here Friday and Saturday of this week, and many top riders known throughout the rodeo circuit have indicated they will compete for the nearly $6000 in prize money offered.

A colorful parade of horsemen will trek through the main streets of Los Gatos starting at 1 p.m. and will be at the local rodeo grounds in time to see the opening track and arena events scheduled to start at 1:30.

On the dust-proof track such events as a pony express race, cow horse competition, awarding of parade prizes, a boots-and-saddle race and stake race will draw close attention.

Highlighting the entertainment will be Frank and Bernice Dean, trick riders and ropers, who have starred in western shows from Cheyenne, Wyo., to the border of Mexico. Frank deftly flicks an 80-foot leather whip, performing such tricks as snapping a piece of paper from his own hands with it.

Indicating they will be on hand are such famous riders as Clay Carr, John Bowman, Del Owens and Harry Rowe, plus many others noted for their skill and daring.

A member of the Rodeo Cowboys Association, this show promises to be one of the fastest-moving events of the season, and a minimum crowd of at least 6000 is expected to jam the community.

PROGRAM FOR GREECE

Washington — Now that President Truman has been voted his money for Greece and Turkey, he faces the all-important question of exactly how he will spend it. Upon this largely depend two things:

1. Whether we have peace or war with Russia.

2. Whether Harry Truman is re-elected president of the United States.

Regarding the less important of these two points, it is interesting to note that the quarter billion dollars we are giving Greece will run out one year from now, just as the 1948 political campaign is getting hot. And if Mr. Truman has to come back to the taxpayer at that time and ask for more dough for Greece, then you can write it down as definite that he will be a one-shot president.

If, on the other hand, the Greek program is a success, the so-called Truman doctrine may go down in history. And what's far more important, the peace of the world may be materially stabilized.

KEEPS 'EM GUESSING

Gov. Melvin Thompson of Georgia didn't learn anything about the president's political plans for 1948 when he visited the White House recently, but he came away with a nice compliment for the people of his state.

Thompson, the man who finally triumphed over Herman Talmadge during the hectic days of two Georgia governors, left the door wide open for Mr. Truman to reveal his 1948 intentions. He reported that the Georgia democratic convention had instructed its executive committee to send a solid Truman delegation to the democratic national convention next year.

Truman grinned his appreciation, but gave no hint as to whether he plans to run in 1948. In fact, he seemed more interested in international and domestic affairs.

"There's nothing so unusual about our problems," he commented. "All postwar periods are accompanied by unrest and people clamoring for things they can't get."

"You have had your own problems in Georgia," Mr. Truman added with a laugh, "and I think the people of Georgia are to be complimented on the way they handled things. I refer, of course, to the famous battle of the governors."

MAKING DEMOCRACY LIVE

Mayor McKeldin of Baltimore recently set aside one Sunday as "Housing Sunday," during which Baltimoreans were urged to rent rooms, remodel houses and find homes for veterans. . . . Florida citrus growers have lowered prices to about one-third what they were at this time last year. . . . Citizens of Lockport, N.Y., and Pittsfield, Mass., are building homes for paralyzed veterans. Last year amputees were voted automobiles by congress, but paraplegic veterans—those completely paralyzed—have been largely neglected. . . . U. S. Army Mothers (Gladys W. Hughes, national commander) have about 25,000 members working voluntarily in hospitals and otherwise aiding wounded veterans. . . . Harvard university this fall will offer a special study of Russia, including the Russian language. Whether they are friends or enemies, it's probably more important to know the Russians than anyone else in the world.

PROTECTING THE MARINES

A hush-hush meeting between General Eisenhower and Marine Corps Gen. Alexander Vandegrift took place recently which may affect the armed forces merger bill. The marine corps commandant made such a two-fisted appeal to congress to prevent the marines being swallowed up by the army that Eisenhower sent for Vandegrift and asked him to talk things over.

From a Leatherneck's point of view, the meeting was not unsuccessful. Eisenhower made at least one major concession: That the mission of the marine corps be clearly identified in the future defense setup and marines continue the amphibious operations which have made the corps famous for 150 years. Other points of difference discussed were:

1. The marine corps shall remain a separate fighting force under supervision of the navy when the navy is merged into the new department of national defense. Eisenhower said he would not oppose this.

2. The marine corps wants to be represented on the joint chiefs of staff in the new setup. Eisenhower refused to commit himself on this.

3. Vandegrift asked that the merger legislation provide for a marine occupation force for foreign duty. Eisenhower vigorously opposed this latter point on the ground that occupation duty is strictly a job for the army.

4-H Club Notes

The Santa Clara County 4-H Club Exhibit Day was the topic of discussion at the May meeting of the County 4-H club, which met on May 13 at the Encinal School south of Coyote. Final appointment of committees composed of local leaders was made. These leaders will be responsible for the organizing and handling of the various activities that are scheduled for this instructional event for 4-H Clubbers. The over-all chairman in charge of the program for the day is H. Dyke Walton, Council President. Roland Ramelli, leader of the Coyote 4-H Club, and Fielding Lundy, leader of the Mission 4-H Club, are in charge of the agriculture exhibits; Mrs. Walter Melott, clothing leader of the Almaden 4-H Club, will be handling the home economic exhibits. Other committee chairmen are—refreshments, Bill Britton, assistant leader of the Paradise Valley Club; and the recreational part of the program will be handled by George Allcorn, from the Almaden district. The Almaden, Coyote, and Mission Clubs are scheduled to make the arrangements, and set-up for the day. Working on the refreshments with Mr. Britton will be leaders from the Jefferson, Paradise Valley, Old Gilroy and San Martin Clubs.

Another items of business for the Council was the discussion and voting in favor of sending letters to the county's legislators urging their support of the Assembly Bill 2082, commonly known as the Agricultural Center Bill.

Initial plans were also made by the Council for the county's 4-H Club members participation in the Annual State Convention, which will be held at the University of California's College of Agriculture at Davis the latter part of August. Appointed to a committee to make the arrangements were Mrs. Murray McRay, leader of the Morgan Hill Club, and Mrs. Ralph Barber, clothing leader of the Jefferson Club.

4-INDIAN ARCHAEOLOGY

The evidence at present available seems to indicate that man evolved in the Far East and thence migrated to the West. Anthropologists agree that the aboriginal American, also, almost certainly came from the Asiatic continent. There has apparently been no land connection between Asia and America within the age of man, but aborigines could have crossed Behring Strait without losing sight of land. To build the necessary boats or rafts, however, implies a somewhat advanced culture.

Before the great Pleistocene ice age man was still half ape and lacked the necessary skill to construct and propel floats. No half-human skeletons have ever been found in America. It is therefore concluded that man could have arrived only during some recession of the glaciers or after their final retreat.

Several different types of culture have been found in Alaska between Point Barrow and Kodiak. For instance, Dr. Larson of the Danish National Museum and Professor F. B. Rainey of the University of Alaska, just before the war discovered what they believe to be a 2000-year-old city at Point Hope, 130 miles north of the Arctic Circle. The streets were a mile in length and the population estimated at 3000—many times greater than that of any present Eskimo village.

Harpoon heads, skulls, ornaments, fish-hooks, snow goggles and arrow-heads were found. Ivory disks covered the eyes of the dead to prevent the entrance of evil spirits, as was the custom in China 2000 years ago. The carved ivory chains and the pattern of the ornaments were Siberian. There is little doubt whence the people came.

Proof of much earlier arrivals in America have been found far to the south. About 2000 well shaped flint weapons of characteristic workmanship called "Folsom points" have been found in New Mexico. Some were deeply buried in the stratified and hardened floors of caves where it was apparent they had never been disturbed. Mammoth bones were found in the same strata and also those of long extinct buffalos. One point was actually found between the ribs of one of the buffalos. No bones of Folsom Man have yet been found, but the artifacts seem to be the oldest yet found in America. The association of his points with extinct animals indicates that his arrival must have been back nearly to Pleistocene times, or possibly during one of the late interglacial periods. W. D. Weymouth, Senior Preparator of the University of California Museum of Anthropology, and graduate student, estimates the age of Folsom Man at 18,000 years.

In Florida gravels human bones have been found near those of mastodons; but since they do not differ from those of Modern Indians, they are believed to represent merely a deep burial.

In October, 1923, J. P. Herrington in excavating a shell mound near Santa Barbara, discovered skulls with low foreheads and thick skulls which he at first believed to be primitive. The bones were found beneath a layer of what he thought to be a natural hardpan. Later, however, bits of charcoal were found embedded in it, indicating that it had been hardened by campfires. Scientists finally concluded that the Santa Barbara skulls were not over 5000 to 8000 years old, in contrast with those of Neanderthal Man, generally estimated to be about 25,000 years old. Ralph Glidden, who had uncovered nearly 3000 Indian graves on the islands of the Santa Barbara Channel, drew upon his experience in solving the riddle, and called attention to the fact that many of the accompanying artifacts were pierced with holes in the manner of the Orient.

In the Cunajo pits, within three miles of the famous La Brea ranch of Los Angeles, five human skeletons were found. They were of large size and advanced type in a region of Pleistocene animal fossils, but their age has not been determined.

Indian civilization reached a high level in Colorado where the Cliff Dwellers of Mesa Verde built elaborate dwellings and ceremonial halls about 1000 years ago. The age of the ruins has been estimated by matching the rings of the timbers used in construction with those of growing trees, or their ancestors.

In Mexico rose the Maya, Toltec and Aztec civilizations with great pyramidal temples—not tombs as in Egypt—stone roadways and cities. In Peru were the great fortified cities of the Incas. The Mayan civilization is apparently the most ancient, and it extends back about 2000 years to the beginning of the Christian era.

Indian shell mounds are scattered along the entire shore of San Francisco Bay. Some are large, some small; some have a predominance of one kind of shell; some another; all are very similar. Over 400 mounds have been observed, and many have been more or less carefully examined. They tell what is to be known about the prehistoric Indians of the bay region.

One of the largest, situated on the bay shore at Emeryville between Oakland and Berkeley, has been very thoroughly investigated. It was opened by N. C. Nelson, Merriam and Uhle of the University of California during the years 1902-1907, and in 1924 was completely leveled by steam shovels and the site used for a factory. The mound was originally 300 feet in diameter and 32 feet high. Its base was two or three feet below the level of the bay.

It was not occupied by Indians when the Spaniards arrived, for Don Pedro Fages explains in his diary that he saw no "heathen" as he looked down from the Berkeley hills to the bay and across the islands. The village must therefore have been abandoned before 1772. The Temescal creek furnishes, awls, whistles and ornamental tubes. Nets and decoys were used in the capture of ducks; nooses, snares and traps for other birds; and the bow and arrow for birds and game. No extinct species were found in the mound by H. Howard of the University of California who made the bird identifications. Of the 50 species examined 33 were water birds, but vultures, owls, quail, crows and condors were also represented.

The composition of the large Ellis Island mound near Richmond was very similar to that at Emeryville. The Indians of this village seem to have had an especial fondness for rocks. They brought fragments of all kinds from several miles back in the hills: shining specimens of mica schist, attractive pieces of blue glaucophane schist, crystallized actinolite, nished water for the prehistoric settlement and in the neighborhood were abundant growths furnishing roots, berries, acorns and seeds. There were birds, fish and game in great variety. Nature provided a mild climate and all human necessities; it is not therefore surprising that the mound should have been inhabited for thousands of years by the easy-going Indians.

The mounds about the bay average about 60 per cent shell, 10 per cent ash, and 30 per cent soil, charcoal, bones, and artifacts. At Emeryville mussel shells predominated; clams took second place, and then came oysters. The mound contained bones of deer, elk, sea otter, sea-lion, birds of different kinds, whales and fish. At a depth of nine feet ten graves with skeletons were unearthed. There were numerous fire beds and scattered artifacts, shell beads, rings, stone, pipes, bone needles and awls, antler chisels, perforated bear-tooth necklaces, arrow-heads, mortars and pestles.

Note: To bring this history up to the present, facts and dates concerning your business, organization, lodge, clubs, church, family, locality, etc., will be appreciated. Harvey Wood Takes Bride In Sunday Rites

A wedding of special interest was held last Sunday afternoon at Campbell Congregational church, and scores of friends were present to greet Harvey Wood, recently returned after more than three years in Germany, and his bride, Miss Erika Kleina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Kleina of Bremen, Germany.

The Rev. Robert Carlson performed the three p.m. rites in a setting of white crepe lilies. Preceding the ceremony, "Always" was sung by Miss Mildred Weeks, with Mrs. David Saunders at the organ.

Mr. Ray Wood, father of the bridegroom, gave the bride away. She was charming in a wedding gown of white marquisette over satin with a fingertip veil held in place by a beaded crown. In her hands she carried a French bouquet of white spring flowers with white ribbon streamers.

Her only attendant was the bridegroom's sister, Miss Lorraine Wood, who wore a similar frock in yellow. Her bouquet was also fashioned like the bride's but was of pastel colors.

Performing the best man's duties was Frank Watson of San Jose with David Saunders serving as usher.

The bridegroom's mother chose a dark blue frock with white accessories for the occasion. This was complemented with a corsage of sweet peas.

A small reception for members of the family and close friends was held at the Wood home following the wedding. Serving at the affair were Mrs. Frank Watson and Mr. Ray Wood's sister, Mrs. Hazel Noonan of San Francisco.

Among the out-of-town guests was Mrs. J. W. Eustus of Centralia, Washington, grandmother of the bride.

After a short wedding trip at the coast, the newly-married pair will be at home in Campbell.

REDWOOD CEREMONIAL

An impressive fire and candle-lighting ceremony was held in the "Redwoods" at Ben Lomond Saturday evening, May 17, at 8:30 by the Oco-wa-sin Camp Fire Girls.

All those working for Wood Gatherer's and Fire Maker's ranks were responsible for the clearing of the location, the wood hauling, seating circle, candle altar and the buckets of water for the extinguishing of the fire.

The program opened with the beat of the tom-tom and call of "Wohelo" by Mardel Sanders. The group of 20 girls returned an answer and advanced with the Processional song. At the circle the girls were greeted from the hill-top by "hand sign" with flashlights given by two girls.

The fire was then lighted by Janis Henley while the group sang "Burn Fire Burn."

Roll call followed in Indian name and the three girls, one by one, approached the altar and lighted their candles either for work, health or love.

Patty Powell explained each of the seven crafts and their symbolic bead color. One of the impressive features of this ceremonial was the wishes made by three girls representing the group working for each rank. Barbara McBain made her wish for the Trail Seekers with fagots made in cross-log and flame symbol that was added to the flame. Janice Frey was a well-wisher for the Wood Gatherers.

Mrs. Henley, leader, explained the value of the beads in actual hard-work accomplishments, and the good fortune in having such a generous sponsoring body in Sigma Sigma of the Congregational church. Mrs. Henley then made the following awards:

For 10 hours of community service—Joyce Klassen, Barbara McBain, Shirley McCallister, Betty Jean Ruth, Marilyn Wheeler, Katherine Bower, Sherrill Chamberlain, Janice Frey, Janis Henley, Edith Olson, Mardel Sanders, Mary Lou Cline and Patty Powell.

For the Birthday Project—Janis Henley, Joyce Klassen, Katherine Bower, Janice Frey, Mary Lou Cline, Patty Powell, Edith Olson, Marilyn Allen, Shirley McCallister, Betty Jean Ruth, Earline Gentry, Evelyn Waggener, Mardel Sanders, Sherrill Chamberlain, Barbara McBain, Doreen Frank and Marilyn Wheeler.

Miss Barbara Davis, chaperone and chairman of the committee representing Sigma Sigma, gave a few chosen words of greeting.

Candles were extinguished and the Recessional song was sung on the way back to the cabin.

OVERNIGHT CAMPING TRIP

Oco-wa-sin girls, 21 in number, left Friday, May 16, for "Cabin in the Sky" at Ben Lomond for two days of outdoor life.

Many sleeping quarters were chosen by groups of girls scattered among the redwoods surrounding the cabin. Every girl shared some part of the work responsibility for each meal.

Saturday afternoon the girls enjoyed a dip in the water of San Lorenzo river and went on a shopping spree at a little crio shop at Ben Lomond.

Sunday morning, all the girls, their leader and chaperones, went to the Community church where Rev. Elsel, formerly of Vallejo, was the visiting minister. He extended a warm welcome to such an active and well worthwhile youth group.

Oco-wa-sin is most grateful to Miss Dorothy and Miss Gladys Merriman, owners of "Cabin in the Sky" and for Miss Gladys Merriman's chaperone.

What Our Readers Think

To the Editor:—

As I am only a visitor in Campbell, it is a great surprise to me to find there is practically no law enforcement on the streets. Naturally, there is something radically wrong when highway traffic of every description goes along the main street of the town at 30 and 40 miles per hour. That is to say, freight trucks, double trucks, buses, big cars, little cars, farm machinery, loads of hay, motor bikes, scooters and "hot rods." As far as the citizens are concerned, they take "their lives in their hands" every time they cross the street.

Can it be possible that one man or a group of men "put the scare" into enough voters to stop incorporation of Campbell into a law-abiding town. If the people are helpless about the control of traffic on the streets, why do they not appeal to county authorities to take over control of a condition too serious for further delay.

Apparently the reason why there are not many people killed is that everybody has resigned themselves to a hopeless state of affairs. Men, women and children are gradually developing the agility of the deer and the jack rabbit. Sometimes they need the courage of a lion and the speed of a gazelle to escape being run down on our "busy business speedway." With cars parked on each side of the street, there is just enough space left for two cars to pass—if the drivers are careful.

It would seem like a good suggestion to request all heavy traffic to take the next main highway north of Campbell avenue. Hamilton avenue has a good surface and is the best highway for heavy traffic.

I do recognize the fact that we live in a "fast world." Many men with cars like to live fast and furious. In that sense they like to imitate the jungle creatures. On the other side, citizens who do not drive cars like to live in peace, without being "forced to run" for their lives every time they go shopping.

Because there is no form of government in Campbell, the slogan seems to be "keep out of the way of traffic, because there is no man or officer with authority to stop us."

Since Campbell is a very desirable place for residence, it is a great pity if a small minority can control enough votes to prevent a responsible form of government so close to other organized towns.

—C. Patterson.

Fire Prevention Contest Deadline

A slogan contest on fire prevention was laid out recently by the California Fire Prevention committee, the Associated Sportsmen of California reported today.

The contest is open to all California public school children from the seventh to the 14th grades.

First prize consists of an all-expenses paid trip of five days to Yosemite National Park. Five additional statewide prizes are offered plus forestry field trips for county winners.

Deadline for entries is June 15. Slogan must consist of not more than five words including the word "California."

The program has been cleared through the State Department of Education. The value of California forests is so great that Gov. Earl Warren has called for the formation of this committee with the hope of stimulating interest in the preservation and conservation of state forests.

The Associated Sportsmen of California has been designated the publicity leader in this endeavor inasmuch as hunting and fishing organizations concern themselves with conservation more intimately than any other single group in the state.

Campbell Court Notes

By Judge Blaine

Sometimes a judge boils! Once in a while he boils over, and it might be his own fault. See what you think about this incident.

A young man was charged with driving over the white line and hit-and-run. He admitted the first but wouldn't plead guilty to the second. Said he was sitting in his car talking to the driver of the car he hit when the officers arrived.

Though both cars were damaged both had full coverage. The insurance companies had paid the bills. The other driver had filed no complaint. Why this young man had been arrested for hit-and-run he said he couldn't understand.

After some weeks of delay owing to the telephone strike, the judge got the story in the version of the complaining officer, to wit: "Judge, that side-swiper had stopped all right—half a mile or more from the scene of the accident and after the other driver had turned around and given chase. Hence the charge."

In court appeared again the side-swiper, accompanied by his widowed mother and the driver of the other car. All admitted that what the officer had said was true. But wasn't stopping half a mile from the scene of the accident a reasonable stop? The widowed mother supported her son and said he was supporting her. The kind driver of the other car supported both.

It was such a plain case of emotional bias and collusion that the judge boiled. When the side-swiper continued to refuse to plead guilty the judge boiled over. "Folks," he foamed, "you're insulting human intelligence! Here, I'll read you from the Vehicle Code: 'The driver of any vehicle involved in an accident resulting only in damage to property shall immediately stop'."

At the words "immediately stop" the judge immediately stopped. The guilt of the side-swiper was immediately obvious. "Judge," he said, "why didn't you read that before? I plead guilty of course." The fine was $50, which was immediately paid.

San Francisco Awaiting Follies

Beautiful girls, graceful and gaily costumed, lend much to the beauty of "The Ice Follies of 1947," which returns to Winterland in San Francisco June 11.

But women also play a vital part behind the scenes of this gigantic musical on ice—the eleventh annual production of Eddie and Roy Shipstad and Oscar Johnson.

Two women, especially, deserve credit for much of the beauty of this frigid fantasia. They are Fran Claudet and Mary Jane Lewis, associate director and dance director, respectively, of the "Ice Follies."

Miss Claudet, once a skating champion herself, has become one of the foremost women production experts in the world. She dreams up these "dreamlike" fantasies and then directs their production with the ease of a genius at work.

Miss Lewis, also a former skating star and a woman with wide experience as a stage actress, puts the dance routines and musical beats together, streamlining with rhythmic grace the intricate steps of the dance into action on silver blades. Between these two women, the "Ice Follies of 1947" rolls off the production line a beautifully streamlined job of entertainment.

In order to accommodate out-of-town patrons, reservations may be made by mail to Winterland, Post and Steiner streets, San Francisco, George J. Campbell, general manager, announced.

Hay Probably In Short Supply

All livestock men are aware of the questionable hay supply picture at this time. Dairymen are making their decisions whether to buy all their year's supply at this time or wait for lower prices. This office has been asked to check the current hay production.

From the Agricultural Extension Service office in Merced County the word comes that Turlock and west-side irrigation district has cut the supply of water, however, not the fifty per cent that has been rumored around. Merced has not decreased their allotment, but they predict that there will be enough water to carry them through September 1st. Throughout the valley they believe that one cutting of alfalfa will be lost this year due to decreased water supply. To date first cutting shows as much alfalfa produced as last year.

In the Sacramento Valley an excellent grain hay crop has been produced that will help relieve the general hay supply. However, the short dry year will cause the beef men to compete more this year to insure feed for the foundation herds.

One group of livestock men believe that as the heat increases in Imperial Valley the Los Angeles dairymen will be going up into the San Joaquin Valley to obtain their hay and pressure will increase the price. We know that there is over 1,000,000 acres of alfalfa in California now, and this is twice as much as five years ago. The demand for milk caused dairymen to feed heavy and demand best quality hay which kept the pressure on hay supply the past years.

Many dairy men are buying half their supply of hay at this time for the coming year and waiting to see how our hay prices act in the next three months. It must be remembered that if we have late fall rains the hay picture can become critical and high prices encountered this winter.

This report will verify the water conditions over the state and we know that one cutting of alfalfa probably will be lost and it will

Another Big Dairy Year

According to Assistant Farm Advisor M. S. Beckley, farmers over the nation have about two per cent fewer cows this year. But they got rid of the lower producers so, for the third year in a row, they seem likely to hang up a new record for milk per cow. In fact, in spite of having fewer cows, their total milk production rose higher the first quarter of this year than in the first quarter of last year.

Furthermore, says Beckley, economists of the U.S.D.A. think it possible that our dairy farms will produce as much this year as last.

Since the middle of February, feed-grain costs have gone up and seem likely to stay up for several months. On the other hand, prices to farmers for milk have gone down more than usual at this time of the year, and probably will go down more through June. Those prices may mean less milk produced in the months ahead compared to a year ago. But the economists think milk production on farms this year will top any other year's except the past two, and may equal 1946 if pastures are unusually favorable.

Creamery butter making has run away ahead of last year, during the past few months, and the economists expect it to prove considerably higher than 1946 and maybe even a little higher than 1945. American cheese production will run higher than last year.

effect our supply materially. Those desiring further information on this problem may call M.S. Beckley of the Extension Service, 201 Post Office Bldg., or call Columbia 3866.

Safety In Electric Fences

Loss in lives and accidents because of improper use of electricity for fencing has been costly to American farmers. Two main safety requirements for electric fence controllers are stressed by R. R. Parks, extension specialist in agricultural engineering.

1. The amperage allowed on the fence wire should be kept low, usually .015 amperes.

2. The current should be allowed on the wire only intermittently, say one impulse per second.

Farmers should be cautioned against use of house service wire connections direct to the fence wire even with lamp resistances in series. POLICE WARNING!

Police officers of the United States and Canada, under the sponsorship of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, begin their Traffic Safety Check on May 15, to curb the rapidly mounting toll of traffic fatalities and injuries. In 1945 28,500 persons lost their lives and 1,000,000 were injured in motor accidents. The police believe these figures can be lowered if all drivers will drive safely in safe cars.

Developing Baby's Taste

As soon as you begin to add strained fruits and vegetables to your baby's menu, you can help him develop a taste for an all-round, well balanced diet by training him to accept a variety of flavors. Babies are naturally satisfied with a monotonous menu. And unless you stimulate and cultivate their taste, they may quite easily develop food prejudices that are difficult to overcome later on.

Forty Items to Choose From

It's not hard for mother, nowadays, to plan and serve varied meals. Forty different items are now available for baby and junior menus. They are scientifically prepared to preserve vitamins and they have all been developed with the special food needs of babies and toddlers in mind. They are all ready to serve after warming.

The baby foods industry, now a basic essential for millions of babies, was started just twenty-five years ago by Harold Clapp, a harassed father who, while his wife was ill, put in many hard hours cooking and straining special fruits and vegetables for his infant son. Realizing that mothers would welcome specially prepared work-free foods for their babies, he started manufacturing them in his basement in 1921. Ten years later he sold his business for $1,000,000. Baby foods sales have now reached a volume of $100,000,000 a year.

Babies Thrive on Strained Foods

Babies thrive on the feeding and care they get nowadays, and the growth of the baby foods industry in this country parallels the improvement in baby health. In 1920, out of every thousand live births, 75.6 infants died under one year of age. By 1938, this number had been reduced to 51 per thousand. Today we know the figure is far lower and it will be still lower when the statistics for 1946 are compiled.

Of course, no one reason is responsible for all that improvement, according to H. W. Roden, president of Clapp's Baby Foods. But doctors are convinced that this new type of infant feeding has been an important contributing factor.

Most American babies, by the time they are a year old, have been fed some of these special strained foods for about nine months. There is an increasingly large assortment to choose from, of course, for the older child, for by the time he needs foods that challenge his chewing power of his new teeth, there are additions to his menu in the form of appetizing junior foods, designed to suit the health and appetite requirements of the toddler.

Let Baby Sample New Flavors

If baby doesn't welcome a new food the first time you give it to him, don't make him finish it. Take it away from him without letting him get upset over it. Then try it again a couple of days later. He will usually learn to like it after he has sampled it a few times.

At a press conference recently celebrating the baby foods industry's twenty-fifth anniversary, Mr. Roden announced that a reassuring letter had been received from Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson. America's babies are not going to be asked to tighten their belts this year. Grocer's shelves will continue to carry ample supplies of the small containers of strained spinach and apricots and peaches, tomato porridge, chopped beets, vegetable soup and all the other items that make the babies' and toddlers' meals wholesome and palatable.

To diminish noise, rails in the Bridge Terminal Building in San Francisco are laid on timber ties embedded in concrete, which rests on a two-inch insulated cushion.

The camel, alpaca, llama, vicuña, and cashmere and angora goats all produce "specialty fibers," so classified under the Wool Products Labeling act.

CLASS HAS LARGE ATTENDANCE

Col. McBride's Bible class of the Methodist church last Sunday honored the foreign born and enjoyed the largest attendance since the class has been organized. Robert Wurfer, born in Czechoslovakia, gave an interesting history and told of the religious struggle of the Christians in that country.

Mrs. E. E. Stewart, Mrs. Lorene Sibley and Mrs. Iva Bowers were back after being absent because of illness. Mrs. Mary Woolridge is not yet able to attend.

A family picnic will be given near the end of July.

LEAVE CAMPBELL

Their many Campbell friends are sorry to learn that Mr. and Mrs. Les Applegarth and family are leaving Campbell to make their home on the Klamath river. They have purchased a fishing lodge and expect to leave about the middle of June.

RECOVERATES

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Walsh are vacationing this week to celebrate Mrs. Walsh's recovery from a recent operation.

TO ATTEND PARTY IN GILROY

Mrs. Chet Clever will take her two small daughters, Barbara and Judy, to Gilroy Saturday to attend their cousin, Kristen Wood's birthday party. Also present will be Mrs. Cecil Keesling of Palo Alto.
